

SUPPER CLUB

ETIQUETTE

There is no complicated rule book. A supper club is not a restaurant. Your waiter tonight is perhaps my best friend. The greatest thing is the social interaction and the opportunity to sit with and get to know new people.

Get chatting! Don't be afraid to ease yourself in by bringing a chatty friend. Two is a great number. Equally, don't be scared to go on your own and don't worry about flying solo because you'll be sitting on a communal table with other friendly faces.

It might seem unnatural to make conversation with strangers so the trusty line 'so have you gone to a supper club before..' will normally break the ice very well.

Our supper club will have a set menu, so be adventurous and prepared to try new things! Whilst we'll be able to cater for vegetarians, sometimes complex dietary requirements or personal dislikes might not be

Supper clubs are carefully planned and organised so there a few things that might make life a little easier, arrive on time; don't cancel at the last minute; employ all the common sense etiquette - treat the venue as your own, be well mannered etc..

Dress code: There isn't one. Wear whatever you're comfortable in. A bit of sparkle never hurt anyone.

Most of all relax and have fun!
